The Reatillo river is a tributary of the Turia river, collecting waters from the Tejo and Negrete sierras, which are crossed by the Long-Distance Hiking Route GR-7. Throughout its course the Buseo dam was built along a broad stretch of pine forest. Access can be gained via the villages of Chera, Siete Aguas, and Sot de Chera to visit the unique ravine of La Hoz, the Tejo peak (1,250m) and its interesting slopes, or the Hoya de Cherales.
