This leisure space, in which culture plays the leading role, bases its activity on three great thematic areas: Art, Science and Nature. Thus, with the aim of educating in an entertaining way, in the 350,000 m² of the Palau de les Arts Reina Sofia (Queen Sofia Arts Centre) the Museu de les Ciències Príncepe Felipe (Prince Philip Science Museum), L'Oceanogràfic, L'Hemisfèric and L'Umbracle are brought together.

The City of the Arts and Sciences in its entirety has been designed by the Valencian architect Santiago Calatrava, in collaboration with Félix Candela, thus achieving one of his greatest works, both due to the architectural feat and to its beauty.

Moreover, the City of the Arts and Sciences has a varied restaurant offer as well as thematic shops in the different areas. Within this visit the L'Oceanogràfic underwater restaurant, the walls of which are made up of a great aquarium, is to be highlighted.
